National Political Guns Are Booming On Several Fronts Today

Next Six Weeks Will Find Political Air Filled With Fur And Feathers

President Hoover Takes Hand In Campaign—Leaders Exchange View points

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The big guns start boom-booming along the national political front this week.

With primaries ended, candidates nominated, the party managers now step into control of things, and for the next six weeks the air will be filled with fur and feathers in the bi-annual battle for control of the next Congress.

That the Democrats are due for some sharp gains in the House is conceded on all sides. The Democrats gleefully proclaim it; the Republicans rather grudgingly admit it. It would be miraculous if the Democrats did not gain materially, for the Republicans are now enjoying the greatest majority they have ever had in the House, and invariably the pendulum swings back between presidential elections.

Leaders Exchange Views
"The Republican majority will be reduced, but it will be sufficient," predicts Representative John J. Tilson, Republican leader of the House. "The Republican majority will be (Continued On Page Two)

PA NEW OBSERVES

Fields of the country have a Halloween look, with the pumpkins looking up at the sun and the silent bunches of corn stalks standing around.

This is the first day of autumn, folks.

October 31 and November 1 are the days when Pennsylvania and all other people of New Castle and Lawrence county should donate food to the Jameson Memorial hospital. The hospital aid society has set aside those days as the donation days, and it is up to everybody to do their bit. Jellies, vegetables and canned fruits are suggested.

Residents along several dirt streets here are considerably provoked at the city. During the early part of the summer they had these streets oiled to keep down the dust and several days ago, city employees came along and scraped the streets with a scraper, taking off the top which had been oiled. Great clouds of dust now greet the residents every time an auto passes along the street.

Pittsburgh's latest metropolitan area map ambition shows that it has been extended to include the city of New Castle on the north. Pittsburgh is making an effort to have the map approved by the census bureau. It would give the Pittsburgh area a population of over 2,300,000.

While there has been no frost as yet, the leaves on trees in the forests in western Pennsylvania are beginning to color. Many of the trees are already showing a variety of colors.

Many of the corn fields are already cut and the corn put up in shocks. It is seen by a trip through the country.

Do Not Disturb Park Squirrels!

Citizens today complained to Councilman Genkinger that boys were chasing dogs after squirrels in Gaston park. He, in turn, notified Mayor Gillespie.
"I wish the boys who are doing this would stop the practice. I am going to have a policeman watch this situation," he said.
It is the desire of the city to have as many squirrels as possible in the park.

Man Sought For Murder Is Taken

New Castle Police Apprehend Negro For Youngstown Crime

Through the efforts of Detective John Young and Officer Thomas Lynch, William Jackson, aged 38, negro, wanted for the murder of Albert Palmer, negro, early Sunday morning, is behind the bars of the Mahoning county jail, in Youngstown, and has made a complete confession to the shooting of Palmer.

Local police authorities were advised about 8 o'clock Sunday morning of the murder, which had occurred at Broad alley and Cypress street, Youngstown, between 2 and 3 o'clock. Detective Young and Officer Lynch were detailed on the case and worked on it until about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when their investigations brought them to the Mahoning avenue district.

Here they came upon Jackson in company with some other colored men at the viaduct and placed him under arrest. He had changed his coat since the time of the murder. Shortly after his arrest he admitted to the murder and expressed his willingness to go back to Youngstown without extradition papers, the officers report.

The officers took him to Youngstown, having left but a short time before the arrival of Youngstown detectives sent here to get him.

Detective Young and Officer Lynch remained there for a time and until (Continued On Page Two)

Bobby Jones Out For Fourth Title

Reels Off 69 In Qualifying Round Of National Amateur Today

JONES PLAYS AS THOUGH INSPIRED

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

MERION CRICKET CLUB, SOUTH ARDMORE, Pa., Sept. 22.—Bobby Jones set a mark for the rest of the field to shoot at this morning when he reeled off a 36-33-69 in the qualifying round of the National Amateur golf championship, a title for which he would give his competitive life, since it would mean the winning of four major championships this year. Jones played this morning as though inspired, stringing together a sequence of nine straight pars, then adding a birdie, and finishing up with six more pars, a buzzard and a birdie sprinkled in.

Only at the eleventh hole did the master touch of Jones falter. Here his drive left the fairway for the only time since the first hole and his mashie niblick from the rough failed to hold the green, a buzzard 5 being the result. Otherwise, the man was perfect. He, in fact, was putting for birdies on at least sixteen of the eighteen holes and the only other (Continued On Page Two)

COUNCIL IS ASKED ATTITUDE ON PAVING OF EUCLID AVENUE

School Board Committee At Council Session During Morning

FIFTY-FIFTY PLAN ON COST OF WORK

No Decision Made This Morning—School Committee To Report To Board

Walter Duff, Dr. W. D. Cleland and Mrs. John Elliott, members of the public school board of directors today conferred with city council in formal meeting at the city building relative to the paving of thoroughfares along which public schools are located.

As the session drew toward a conclusion Mr. Duff asked council: "If the school board cannot proceed is it the attitude of the city it will not proceed with the paving at the expense of the city?" Councilman Treser said the city would refuse to pave, although eventually it would have to consider Euclid Avenue.
When the conference first opened the Euclid avenue situation was discussed. Councilman Genkinger said the city would like the school board to pay on a 50-50 basis, the board to pay one half and the city the other half of the school board assessment.

Under the law the school board is exempt, if it cares to stand alone from paying an assessment.
Councilman Genkinger then said (Continued On Page Two)

Ask For Probe At West Chester

Charges Made Male Students At Teachers' College Voted Illegally

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Sept. 22.—Members of the Pennsylvania Elections Association today formally petitioned Governor John S. Fisher and Dr. John A. H. Keith, superintendent of public instruction, asking an investigation of charges of irregular voting by male students at the West Chester Teachers college during the primary last May.

The petition to the governor after setting forth the alleged irregularities asks that the entire matter be laid before the attorney general's department for investigation and if the charges made are substantiated prosecution of "those responsible for bringing about this deplorable and wholesale violation of the election laws." The petition to Dr. Keith makes the same charges and asks that he give every possible cooperation in the requested investigation.
The petitions charge that "a large number" of the students at the college voted in the primary election although they had no bona fide residence within Chester county and that "certain students" were paid $200 each for their votes and that their voting taxes were paid by persons other than themselves.

Paving Cost About $4,400

It would cost approximately $4,400 to pave Euclid avenue in front of George Washington Junior high school, according to Harry Hoskins, assistant to Municipal Engineer Frank Miller. Mr. Hoskins was asked to furnish the footage and probable cost. The avenue has a 36 foot cartway.
He said that the paving would cost approximately $10.00 a foot, depending upon the type of construction.
Under the city's plan the school board would pay half of the amount or if it cost $4,400, a total of $2,200 and the city would pay the balance.
The school board would not pay for paving on the opposite side or anywhere place along the avenue.

For a number of years now, the Blue Lake Ice Company had been delivering ice to the Smith family in its town. But a break occurred one day. A dispute arose over the price, and Mrs. Smith, who had a contract with the company for ice for the entire summer, canceled the contract and transferred it to another company. The Blue Lake Ice Company did not protest the cancellation and the new company began to deliver ice in its place.

Soon, however, the new company was forced to go out of business and sold out to the Blue Lake Ice Company and the Blue Lake Ice Company again began delivering ice to Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Smith said nothing about it, but when the bill for the ice became due she refused to pay and the ice company sued.

reduced—to the point of invisibility, retort the Democratic spokesmen. To the anticipated normal off-year swing against the party in power is added this year the effects of sagging business conditions, widespread unemployment, the lowest grain and commodity prices in many years, with accompanying resentment in the agricultural regions, and bitter prohibition struggles in scores of districts. These latter fights cut into both parties, although the Republicans generally are to be found on the dry side.

Already the Republicans have sounded the tocsin of "Stand by the President." Every Republican key-note to date has signified the Republican determination to go to the country on the record of the administration and demand a vote of confidence thereon. The same sentiment will be expressed this week by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson when he "keynotes" the Republican convention in New York state.

Accept Challenge

The Democrats have accepted with alacrity the opportunity to go to the country "on the record." Ample financed for the first time in many years, militant and aggressively confident, they plan during the next six weeks to clinch from every stump that the "Hoover prosperity" promised two years ago has proved a bitter myth; that the farmers are now worse off than they were before the passage of the Hoover farm relief law.

That there is unemployment and breadlines in the cities; that the Republican tariff bill is responsible for falling exports and bitterness against the United States abroad; and that, in short, "Republican prosperity" has become, in fact, "Republican hard times."

While the Democratic plan of attack takes in, of course, the whole country, the real spear-head of the attack will be centered in some 101 congressional districts where in recent elections the margin of victory has been expressed in 5,000 votes either way. This list has been carefully compiled and represents weeks of research and concentration.

Herculean Task

The present Republican majority in the House is 102 over all. Thus to gain control of the House to the point of organization the Democrats will have to gain 32 seats—a Herculean undertaking and one that no party has ever accomplished in an election. But, taking the 100 districts where the margin of victory either way is expressed in 5,000 votes or less, and add to it the abnormal conditions that prevail this year as to business and prohibition discontent, and the net result is to make the Democrats singularly hopeful and confident.

Next week will see President Hoover himself get into the campaign.

In the space of one week he is to make four speeches in widely separated sections of the country—in Cleveland, two in Boston and one in North Carolina. The spots were selected partly for strategic reasons, presumably. It is no secret that the Republicans are nervous over Ohio this year, where in addition to 22 members of the House there is also a senator to be elected this year. Roscoe C. McClellan, Republican, who is opposed by Robert J. Bulkley, Democratic, is the issue.

Warm Senate Fight

In Massachusetts there is also a warm senatorial struggle with a Republican-dry, William M. Butler, being opposed by a Democratic-wet, Marcus A. Coolidge. The Democrats carried Massachusetts in 1928.

Down in North Carolina the Republicans have two congressmen, thanks to its bolt of Smith two years ago. Mr. Hoover's trip into the old north state might be regarded as his contribution to the Republican effort to save something out of the 1928 victory there.

Anyway, the campaign is on, and November 4 will render the verdict.

the Perry highway from Harlansburg to Mercer and in that district, everything has a dried up appearance. Some miles north between Sandy Lake and Greenville, the country has a vivid green indicating that there has been plenty of rain recently.

Pa. News is glad to welcome the delegates to the 73rd session of the First Synod of the West of the United Presbyterian denomination for their meetings in the Highland United Presbyterian church.

Workmen busy chiseling about the post office are "pointing up" the stone work. The whole building is being gone over.

A license of one of the local express trucks was lost last week, so the state was notified to this effect. In response came a new tag carrying the numerals 345, the telephone number of the company.

New Castle's school teachers got their first pay of the year today. Approximately $35,000 was paid out at the different school buildings.

Pa. News was flagged down on East Washington street just opposite Cascade park on Saturday evening and a workman stepped up to the car and inquired if he was smoking. Rather an unusual question, but the workman went on to explain that there was a gas leak further down the road and no chances were being taken on the gas being ignited.

Pa. News has suggested this previously, that New Castle residents leave their autos in the garage when coming downtown on Saturday nights. There was a terrific amount of traffic downtown Saturday night, and it would help some if as many local autos were kept off the streets on Saturday night as possible. The more visitors being given accommodation the better. With the increasing number of good roads converging in New Castle this city is steadily becoming the shopping center for a wider area, and more visitors are coming on Saturday night.

Street department and state highway employees are preparing for winter. Ashes are being unloaded convenient to steep hills, so that the hills can be ashed when the first coating of ice appears.

Pa. News saw a boy fill a bottle with the cool water from the fountain at East Washington and East streets this morning.

Speaking of hot weather one resident returned today to tell of Oklahoma's scorching temperatures. At the hospital, he said, doctors found it difficult to take the temperature of patients. No sooner would they shake the mercury down until the excessive heat would send it soaring far above 100.

With the traffic signal light ordered taken down from Atlantic avenue and West Washington street, why not erect it at the corner of Moody and North Mercer streets? This corner needs protection of this sort.

NOTORIOUS BEER RUNNERS HUNTED IN DRY SLAYING

Duffy's apprehension said to be only a matter of a few hours.

Hassel, once known as Reading's millionaire newsboy and described at various times by federal prohibition agents as a "beer baron," is said to have been forced out of Pennsylvania by the diligence with which Finello pursued his duties. For the past few months, it is said, Hassel has been engaged in the illicit liquor business in New Jersey.

Both Duffy and Hassel, according to Abe David, prosecutor of Union county, were part owners of the Elizabeth brewery.

"Duffy's name has been mentioned a number of times since investigation of Finello's murder was started," David said. "We have made a quiet search for him since Friday, but have failed to locate him. Of course, we are not interested in his violations of the liquor laws. That is up to federal authorities. But we are very anxious to question him in connection with Finello's murder."

"It has been a matter of common knowledge, from what we understand that Duffy was part owner, if not actual owner of the Egg Harbor brewery which Finello raided some time last spring."

"I feel certain Duffy knows something of this murder."

THE FIRST LIFE ON THE EARTH

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

When it is said that life has existed on the earth 1,000 million years, it is not meant that human beings have been here that long. As we know, there are two forms of life that exist on the earth—plant and animal. Plant life appeared hundreds of thousands of years before animal life. There had to be plant life first for it is well known that the world was not prepared to take care of animal life until after plant life developed. At first there was no oxygen in the atmosphere. Animal life must have oxygen to breathe. Plant life liberated the oxygen that is in the air.

time that he seemed destined to exceed par saw him wait a 15 footer into the cup for a par at the fifteenth.

Jones needed every stroke, at that, to head off young Sidney Noyes, of New York, a member of the Yale Golf team, who blew himself to 32 strokes on the inward nine to score a 70 and range into a temporary lead. Most of the early scores were far from plausible, Art Sweet, Chicago and Fay Coleman, Los Angeles, holding third position at this juncture with a pair of 78's.

Jones' card follows:
Out 4 5 3 5 4 4 4 4 3—36
In 3 5 4 2 4 4 4 3 4—33

Total 69
Dave Ward, Grand Rapids, Mich., trailed Jones home a few minutes later with a 75 to take third place in the standing.

MAN SOUGHT FOR MURDER IS TAKEN

after Jackson had made a complete confession of the crime.

He used a .38 calibre Smith & Weston revolver and fired three shots into Palmer, striking him in the eye and causing almost instant death.

According to the confession, Jackson and his wife with others were in the Broad alley and Cypress street district and Jackson claims that others were trying to put something over on him through the medium of a woman. He had shoved the woman away and would have nothing to do with her and as he did so Palmer and two or three others had jumped him. He claims. He pulled his gun and started shooting, hitting Palmer.

Eaton Is Thought On Witness Stand

After Brief Cross-Examination Cleveland Financier Is Released From Stand

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 22.—After a surprisingly brief cross-examination during which his credibility in opposing the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube company with Bethlehem Steel corporation was tested, Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, was released from the witness stand in the common pleas court trial here today of the injunction suit against the consolidation.

Eaton was questioned by Newton D. Baker, chief counsel for the defense who sought to prove that the mill and its subsidiaries did not follow the same procedure in engineering steel mergers of his own that he claims should have been followed in effecting the merger of the Youngstown concern with Bethlehem.

The Cleveland financier was followed to the witness stand by W. S. Campbell of New York, who was cross-examined by Clam Crawford, attorney-at-law, regarding details of bookkeeping and accounting methods of both Sheet & Tube and Bethlehem.

that Laurel avenue should be paved and Councilman Burns stated that Cunningham avenue should be paved.

"The people are very anxious to have Euclid avenue paved," remarked Councilman Reeves.

"We are all anxious to have the avenue paved," replied Treser.

Consider Four Streets
Council next talk of paving four thoroughfares, namely:

Cunningham avenue, Ben Franklin, Laurel avenue, Highland school, Euclid avenue, George Washington, Albert street, Arthur Magill.

Council studied the blueprints and determined that to pave them all would result in paving of 2,155 feet at an estimated cost of about $5,000 a foot. Lutton street paving cost about $9,000 a foot, it was explained.

Under the council's plan the city would pay half of the assessment and the school board the rest.

Ask City's Attitude.
Mr. Duff was asked for the school board's action would be in regard to the proposed paving.

He said that at this time he was not prepared to say what probable action they would take as he visited council with his colleagues for the purpose of ascertaining the city's attitude.

This answer was followed by this question as to what position the city would take if the school board did not agree to pay any part of the cost and Councilman Treser said: "The city will refuse to pave." Councilman Genkinger remarked "my position is the same as that of Treser."

Councilman Reeves said "I am not satisfied. The school board has a lot of requirements the city doesn't know about."

"The same applies to us" retorted Treser.

"The school board has the ability to raise taxes," said Mayor Gillespie. "Let us add a mill and the citizens raise 'cain'."

"Yes, you (meaning the council) have a limit and the school board have a limit and the school board have a limit."

A large birthday cake presented to the honor guest by her sister, Mrs. M. B. Magargee of Grove City, formed the centerpiece of the main table. Later, games and music occupied the leisure hours.

Crime Never Pays

BITS CLUSTERING AROUND NEWS OF DAY

HEYWOOD BROWN, writing for a syndicate of newspapers, took a column on Saturday night to spread around a lot of tribute to the agencies that "had already routed Prohibition." Some of these days he's going to wake up!

A lot of anti-prohibitionist writers have been busy for months past assailing leaders in the prohibition cause. They fail to recognize the fact that there are millions of Americans who are for prohibition because they believe that it is right, and not because of personality of any leaders.

In Youngstown a newspaper reporter has been indicted with the elections board on a charge of irregularities in elections. He denies guilt of any of the charges, and maintains that he will prove his innocence. If he is found guilty he should receive a severe sentence. A newspaper man occupies a peculiar position of public trust that demands honesty above everything else in his service of a public nature.

Attendance at night football games in this district at the opening of the season was such that it seems to question the widespread reports of business depression, or else it indicates that the depression period has been passed. Near record crowds turned out to the games.

Now is the time to buy merchandise of any kind. Reports indicate that prices are the lowest and the value received the greatest of any period since 1913. Buy now.

More bus lines are to be established by the Harmony route between this city and Pittsburgh. It would not be surprising if the Harmony interurban lines would be replaced by the bus service at some near future date, although no such announcement has been made. The cars stop at the city line at the present time and passengers are brought into the city via bus.

Automobile traffic in New Castle on Saturday night was the densest that has been seen for months. Apparently there were hundreds of visitors from the surrounding district. With the completion of the large network of good roads into this city from all directions, it is easy for the rural residents from twenty-five and thirty miles distant to get into the city on Saturday nights. New Castle is certainly glad to welcome them!

TOLL OF FOREST FIRES

American forests suffered heavily last year from devastating fires. The forest service of the federal department of agriculture has record of 134,895 forest fires which swept 46,000,000 acres of woodland and caused $100,000,000 damage.

Such tremendous loss is a challenge to the national and state governments and to every citizen whether he knows it or not. Every man, woman and child in the United States has some interest in the forests, either direct or indirect.

Forest fire figures are always cause for dismay, for they always seem hopelessly large. But man's right against the forest fire is not hopeless. It is a fact that 90 per cent of all forest fires are in unprotected timber areas. Every year the range and efficiency of fire prevention are increased, and wherever the service is in effect the number of forest fires is greatly reduced.

Help in this field is also coming from the public. Carelessness and thoughtlessness on the part of campers, hikers, sportsmen and others are responsible for fewer fires in those states where forest fire prevention has been preached to the public. Lightning causes more fires than the careless camper, whose percentage last year was 8.7.

WILD LIFE FACES SERIOUS CONDITION

The winter season is not a particularly happy period for any of the wild life that remains with us through the cold months; not even the best of winters, as measured by mildness of temperatures and plenty of food upon which wild life subsists.

And it is likely that the winter season of 1930-31 will be even less happy for the denizens of the open, even with mild and congenial conditions to soften the suffering. For the season will be a season of unusual famine among the birds and animals that rely upon nature's store of food to be found on the dried weeds and shrubs and dormant trees. The drought of the summer has attended to that.

In Missouri and many other states departments of game conservation have encouraged the scattering of grain at times when frosts seal the natural storage of feed, and millions of quail survive periods of distress to broadcast their cheery calls in the happier days of spring. Organizations and individuals are supplied with grain to be scattered in favored spots and storm-bound birds are enabled to exist through weather crises.

That represents the normal treatment, when nature has been permitted to fill the winter storehouse with feed that may be reached between periods of ice and snow. The treatment for the coming winter must be different, if we expect the usual percentage of birds to pass through the winter to the generous offering of the spring months. We must provide more grain that can be scattered during actual, ice-bound periods.

A Popular Bluff sportsman has suggested the method. As a result of his proposal the Missouri Game Department is engaged in distributing free Hungarian and German millet seed in North Missouri and sorghum seed in the southern sections to organizations and individuals that will sow the seed in small plots in time to insure quick fall growth and thus provide winter range for the birds. The Sedalia chapter of the Izaak Walton League, the first organization to take advantage of the offer, has selected a score of half-acre plots in isolated districts for the plantings. Multiplied many times, this provision will carry thousands of wild birds through a lean winter. It is a practical charity.—The St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Strange to say, that will which a British sailor wrote on an egg has not yet been broken.

It won't be long now before our only worry will be the world series. And after that football and Christmas shopping.

If Germany Goes Bolshevik.
Telephone Word Scrambling.
The President 'Envisions.'
Re-Enter Dr. Einstein.

BEARS IN WALL STREET enjoyed themselves Friday, and the public learned about the importance of Germany's stability, even here in our stock gambling.

A rumor of revolution in Berlin was spread and refused to die. German reparations bonds dropped sharply. American stocks fell off from 1 to 8 points.

The world's "best minds" in this country particularly, will realize that Germany brutal, financial slavery, was not as wise as it sounded in the beginning.

Those that said, "Let the Germans pay, they lost," would not be so cheerful if they saw Germany driven into bolshevism.

Germany and Russia, both bolshevistic, on the East would make financial Europe on the West tremble for good reasons.

THE DUTCH TELEPHONE COMPANY, between The Hague and the Dutch East Indies, tries experiments in "scrambled" conversation.

That news will interest Mrs. Ruth McCormick, who says a Senate committee tapped her wire. It wouldn't do any good to tap the new telephone system in question.

THE SENDING instrument transforms words into an entirely unintelligible jargon, while the instrument connected with the ear of the receiver, puts them back into plain language.

The illegal listener in would hear, for instance this jumble: "trujisnobkansep" and the legitimate listener would get the message: "Jones is bankrupt." Each letter of the real message appears in "trujisnobkansep."

MR. GILBERT, who knows sometimes what goes on in Washington, says President Hoover, awaiting a report by his dry law commission, "won't countenance repeal, but envisions modification." The fact that he doesn't countenance repeal makes no difference, for it would be impossible to repeal the amendment. Seventeen states can prevent it, and more than 17 are "dry forever."

THE USE OF the word "envisions" is something of which President Hoover was not guilty, needless to say. Our crime wave is bad enough without butchering the English language.

It would be interesting to know just what kind of modification the President "envisions," also what his "reaction" is on the "mass psychology" produced by wholesale and retail bootlegging, murder, racketeering and all-around devilry.

MR. EINSTEIN reappears on the front page to tell you that space is "only a theory" representing a non-reality. Perhaps, he never bumped his head in the dark, and hit the (Continued On Page Five)

THE MODERN METHUSALEH
You may be nearing the half-century mark.

You hear about large concerns refusing to employ men over 50.

To you this is the gravest problem which confronts the country.

Often you wonder what you would do if you should lose your job.

Perhaps you have reached the point where you are afraid to exercise initiative and dare not make suggestions to your employers because you fear they might say you are a fault-finding old codger and a back number.

If you would give less time to thinking about your age and more time to the best and the latest methods of keeping up a department like yours, you might be more likely to keep your job.

Don't try to force old ideas into a modern department.

Endeavor to evolve or understand new ideas.

Don't fight against changing your style or your methods.

Try things out and seek the best way with an open mind.

If you are not as able to do your work physically as in the past, you may be able to offset physical labor by thoughtful ways of increasing your output.

Don't think so much about your age.

Try to forget how old you are and make every possible effort to keep up with the present-day procession.

Defeat Of Blease In South Carolina And Success Of Long In Louisiana Attract Attention As Country Studies Results Of Balloting In States.

Conspicuous in the recent primary results shown by various states are the charges brought about within the Democratic Party in South Carolina and Louisiana. The defeat of Senator Blease in South Carolina after a long career in public life and the success of Governor Long in Louisiana in his campaign for the United States senate have been noted with interest by the whole country. The two men are rated as possessors of picturesque personalities, and it is regarded as a coincidence that as one leaves the senate the other arrives as a candidate of the dominant party in his state.

"The Democrats of Louisiana," says the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR (Ind.), after reference to Blease's defeat, "have nominated Governor Huey P. Long, despite his youth a political storm center for several years, while the senate loses one firebrand from the south, apparently it gains another." Results in the two states are described by the HOUSTON POST-DISPATCH as "outstanding results of Democratic primaries in the south." In explanation, the Houston paper continues: "Long, twice threatened with impeachment, defeated the veteran Joseph E. Ransdell for the Louisiana Democratic senatorial nomination in one of the bitterest political battles ever waged in his state. Blease, for 40 years a prominent figure in South Carolina politics, was defeated for the Democratic senatorial nomination by former Representative James P. Byrnes, his unsuccessful adversary six years ago. Neither result was unexpected. While Blease led Byrnes in the 'first primary' several weeks ago he fell far short of a majority and it was regarded as certain that Byrnes would get the larger part of the vote cast for the third candidate. Long, in spite of his troubles, was known to have a great popular following. The real surprise in his race is the large vote cast for him in the city of New Orleans."

"Bleas will not be missed, thanks to Louisiana," remarks the ROANOKE TIMES (Ind. Dem.). "Huey will fill the fiery South Carolina's shoes and his behavior doubtless will conjure up visions of the departed fire-eaters of other days. Huey's backers in Louisiana are already talking about running him for president in 1932. That only goes to show that in Louisiana they have very little conception of what a president of the United States is like."

"Any way after March 4 next," advises the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE (Ind.), "Huey is, whether we want him or not. He'll be making laws for us, so we might as well prepare to enjoy the show." The Chronicle observes that Governor Long's small folks to go to bed so they can keep awake in school next day. Tuff luck!

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THE MATTER OF LANGUAGE.

With the increasing importance of business in the modern world, with more travel and intercommunication, it is my belief that the tendency will be more and more to substitute English for the native tongue in every part of the world. A country, even a small one, that refuses to do this is placing itself in a position to be out of the race.

This venture at prophecy may seem chimerical today. It will probably seem less so a hundred years hence. In the Scandinavian countries today, practically every high school boy and girl learns English. In Germany, French and Italian schools, English is the preferred foreign language.

In Spanish-America English is the "second" language. Even the Irish don't object to speaking English more.

The significant thing is that the language of England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales of the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, is becoming the second language of almost every civilized country.

Being the language known to all, this "second" language is due to become more and more, the language of commerce, industry, and finance; the language of travel and international correspondence; the language of commercial travelers and exchange professors; even eventually, the language of diplomacy.

It is interesting to recall that in the recent London conference, French was not used as extensively as it once was in negotiations between nations.

The American boy, however, should speak the Spanish language if he learns no other. It is the Second Language of North America and the First Language of Central and South America.

Makes An Appeal For Rescue Mission

Editor News:
Dear Sir:

As one interested in the many problems of our City Rescue Mission at the present time and problems that can only be solved by the financial assistance of our benevolent citizens to keep open the door of refuge for God's unfortunate, I ask, shall the door of the mission be closed?

One has but to recall the recent report of the missions work to realize the necessity of this institution in New Castle, not only for humanity but for winning souls to the redeemer as well. So in this appeal let me add, that the life of the "King's business" as conducted in our Rescue Mission under the supervision of Rev. Benjamin Watkins, depends entirely upon contributions from our benevolent citizens. I can think of nothing more deplorable than to have the Rescue Mission closed.

An appeal comes to our citizens, who always respond to any good work to contribute to the fund of $4000 which must be raised for immediate use to keep open this door of hope, a ward of the churches and endorsed by its pastors and Christian citizens. Under direction of Rev. Watkins, a conscientious man of God, the work of the Mission is economically conducted and through the spiritual influence of the Mission many souls have been led to a better life.

Contributions have been coming in but much more is needed to tide over the present situation. The splendid board of directors have already subscribed to the fund and the fine donation of $40 from the employees of the New Castle News has been gratefully received.

Readers, a recent visit to the Mission prompts the writer to make this appeal to keep this haven of rest open for the weary and discouraged men "pulling hard against the stream."

Through the courtesy of Mr. Watkins and Thomas Hinkson I learned many things regarding the mission work and how little we know of the real necessity of the home that is "everlastingly at it to reclaim fallen manhood into respectable Christian lines." Make a little visit to the Mission and you will almost feel the sunshine of God's presence as you are shown through the building and look upon the clean beds and really pleasant surroundings. Then I ask you—shall the Rescue Mission be closed? In the kitchen I met several devoted women canning tomatoes to be used for the needy poor during the winter and then there was clothing to be mended and furniture for those in distress.

It was a morning well spent by me with these people in Gods work and I felt it was good to be there. No the Rescue Mission must not be closed and an appeal comes from an organization that in the last nine months has given out 5907 meals and 3912 unfortunate men have been given places to sleep.

Faithful women have taught little girls to sew and Sunday School services included with the nightly meetings held. All contributions will be acknowledged and gratefully received.

Peter's Adventures

FIRST HONORS TO THE HUNTRESS

As the two boon companions drew nearer the dining room, Peter could hear what the ants were shouting, but not even for Busy's sake could he admit that the shouting was tuneful although he pleased the ant greatly when he declared the words of their chant sounded good to him. "Hail, hail, our feast is here! Gather round with hearty cheer. Our Hunter Ant went forth to slay And with her skill has saved the day!"

Over and over again the ants chanted these four lines, until Peter thought he would have to clasp his hands over his ears to keep out the monotonous sound. However, by and by he grew used to it and by and by Peter and Busy arrived at the door of the dining room. Peter never forgot the scene that then greeted his eyes. In the center of the room stood Hunter Ant. At her feet lay a helpless captive, and around the hunter and her captive were massed more ants than Peter ever had seen in his life. Backwards and forwards they moved now this way, now that. Were they dancing? Well, maybe they called it that, but to human eyes they were shuffling to and fro and getting nowhere. Peter looked at Busy, and to his surprise saw that his best friend was doing the shuffle step, too.

"Hey, what are you doing that for?" demanded the boy. And Busy answered: "To pay honor to Hunter Ant, who has brought us something to eat. We ants work hard and we get very hungry. And it doesn't do us any good to go hungry for long. We grow weak. Look, Hunter Ant is now being given her share of the feast. Soon the tidbits will be passed around."

FAREWELL RECEPTION

The members of the Methodist Episcopal church held a farewell reception for the pastor Rev. V. L. Bloomquist and family on Friday evening in the form of a tureen dinner. Rev. Bloomquist has been transferred to the Savannah and West Pittsburg charge. His many friends regret his short stay here.

The meeting was in charge of Prof. Black. Several songs were sung, and C. B. White presented Rev. Bloomquist, in behalf of the Ladies Aid, a Bible and Prof. Black in behalf of the Brotherhood of the church presented to Mrs. Bloomquist a purse of money. Rev. W. I. Taylor gave a brief history of the hardships the Methodist ministers of former years had to contend with in accordance with the present day ministers. Rev. Judge Holds Recent Law Not Valid

Says Measure Providing For Sale For Taxes Of Seated Lands Not Constitutional

(International News Service)
BELLEFONTE, Pa., Sept. 22.—The tax collection law passed by the last legislature, providing that seated lands may be sold for over-due taxes was held unconstitutional in an opinion handed down Saturday by Judge M. W. Fleming making permanent an injunction against county treasurer Lyman Smith restraining him from selling seated lands for taxes.

Judge Fleming's opinion, which was extensive, held the law unconstitutional in that it was defective in many sections by not giving the property owner the right of defense against illegal, unjust and wrongful assessments levied on his property.

The decision followed issuance of an injunction by Judge J. V. Bowers at Philadelphia last week restraining the county treasurer from selling some 500 farms and other properties which had been advertised for sale under the law.

The Centre county commissioners, acting under the provision of the law which provided that land on which taxes have not been collected by the first Monday in May of each year shall be turned over to the commissioners to certify to the treasurer for sale, had posted the lands for sale.

The law has been widely discussed over the state and opposed in several counties.

An action similar to that begun here is in progress in Clearfield and in-junction proceedings to prevent commissioners from selling seated lands on which taxes were not collected by the specified period, have been begun in several other counties.

Former Minister Of Rumania Is Suicide

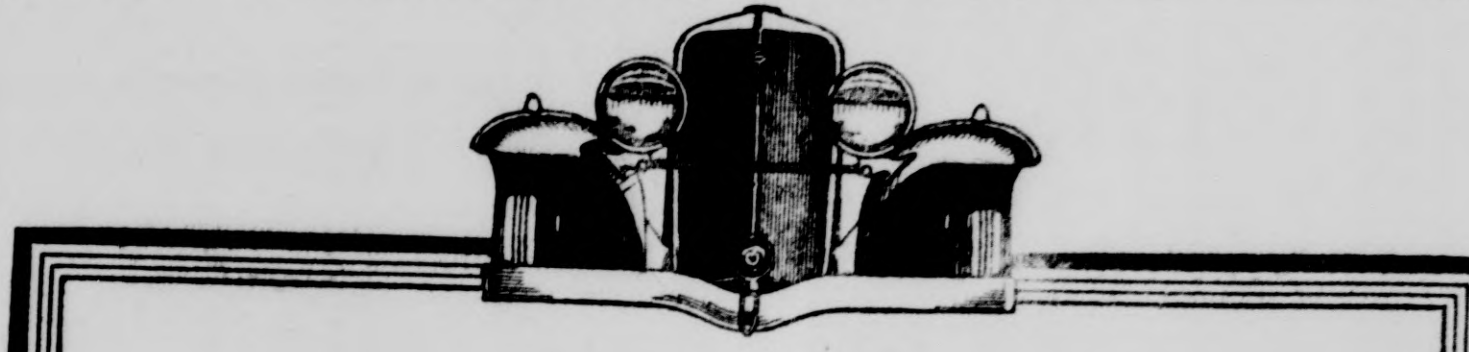

General Mircescu, Former Minister Of War In Rumania Commits Suicide

(International News Service)
BUCHAREST, Sept. 22.—A sensation was created in official circles here with a report printed in the newspaper Lupata today that General Mircescu, former war minister and close friend of King Carol, had shot himself and was near death.

The military leader, who had a large hand in arranging the coup that brought Carol back to Roumania and upon the throne, requested that he be allowed to die, following connections with an alleged "rage attack," Lupata reported.

Three other generals are also under investigation under similar suspicions.

College Year Now Under Way

Westminster Taking On Mid-Season Appearance This Week

(Special to The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 22.—The seventy-ninth college year at Westminster is now under way. With two days of classes completed last week, with football in the air, and with student activities starting, the campus has changed from the quiet and deserted place of summer months to one of crowds and student functions.

The annual "Who's Who" was held Saturday night in the college gymnasium. Under direction of the college Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A., all students and faculty members again availed themselves of the opportunity of getting acquainted with new students and meeting old students.

Fred Williams, Carnegie, Pa., editor-in-chief of the Herald, student weekly, called his first editorial board meeting on Friday to give out assignments. The first issue of the year will appear tomorrow.

Jack Hulme, coach of the cheer-leading squad, announced Saturday that he plans to call out candidates and leaders today for rehearsals for the first football game on Saturday. A movement on the part of a group of students, headed by Donald Cameron, Johnstown, Pa., to start a student band is also receiving campus interest.

It is probable that a special cheer practice for freshmen will be called for Wednesday or Thursday night. A pep meeting for the entire student body is being planned for Friday night in preparation for Saturday's game against Edinboro State Teachers' College.

Varsity cross country candidates start their drills in preparation for the season at 9 o'clock this afternoon. Members of the Aero business staff are busy making preparations to sell soft drinks and hot dogs at Saturday's game. The Aero staff is also sponsoring a 24-page souvenir football program which will be edited in conjunction with the College News Bureau. The program will contain pictures of coaches and players, line-ups and squad statistics and other athletic information and data.

Saturday's game with Edinboro State Teachers will according to A. A. McDonald, attract quite a crowd. With three former New Castle high athletes on the team, two or three from Mercer county, three from the Youngstown district, and a number from the Pittsburgh district, the crowd should represent a radius of 60 miles or more.

Diamond To Land At Philadelphia Port

Jack "Legs" Diamond Will Arrive In Philadelphia Today Aboard Freighter

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—Accompanied by a boatload of canaries, Jack "Legs" Diamond, New York racketeer king, was scheduled to arrive here today from Germany. He sailed from Hamburg September 6 on the freighter Hanover, after requested to embark by German authorities.

Diamond may decide not to get off the boat here and go on to Baltimore, where it was reported his wife was waiting to meet him.

Should he land here, police may take him into custody although it was denied New York authorities had asked them to hold the racketeer. At police headquarters it was said that diamond might be taken into custody until definitely established whether New York authorities wanted him and if they did not he would be invited to leave Philadelphia at once.

His balloon having failed to rise, the German who wants to go ten miles up into the air doubtless wishes that there was some way in which he could step on the gas.—The Boston Transcript.

The Parent Problem

Keep Record Of Scholars, Betterment

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

For a number of years I have been writing and saying that improvement by the child in learning and conduct is of more significance than actual achievement at any time.

One evening before a class of parents of pre-school children at the university, I emphasized this point of view of improvement in achievement as a goal. Something such as this I said:

We miss a great opportunity to stimulate practically all children instead of just a few of them. We ought to applaud their improvement in such traits as neatness, accuracy and industry rather than their absolute achievement. The way a child acts at any moment, and the work he accomplishes, are not most important, but how much better he behaves and how much more he achieves than he had acted or achieved before. Improvement is the item which we ought most to emphasize at home and in school.

Display in the classroom the neatest and most accurate paper in arithmetic or spelling or in composition, and about the same children from time to time win all the distinction, only to be envied by their comrades who see no opportunity to attain such excellence.

The winner may have employed little effort. Maybe he didn't need to. He may have inherited a superior nervous system; his dead great-grandmother may deserve the prize. Many other children may have striven harder only to achieve a quality of work unworthy of display. The child whose papers were exhibited may not need the stimulation anyway. It, indeed, may do him harm since it was no reward for attainments got by effort and self-sacrifice. It may make him snobbish and unsympathetic toward his classmates and less lovable to every other person.

If, instead, the teacher had collected a sample of her pupil's work early in the school term and similar samples after later intervals, she could have ascertained objectively which among them had made the most improvement.

Better still, the children themselves could observe one another's rate of growth in such matters. Carefulness, neatness, undoubtedly would then be the qualities held at a premium.

These choice traits of character then would be stimulated. The weaker children would have a chance to win approval. Practically every child could see an opportunity to attain worthy notice. Parents' well might apply the same principles at home.

To the next meeting of the class a teacher who in these discussions seemed always to have an unusual sympathy for children, brought along concrete evidence of the application of the very thing I had presented, except she had been working at it for about six months.

It was a large hand-made folder beautifully decorated. At the top was the legend, "The Book of Improvements," and at the bottom, "Watterson School, Room 7." As I opened it I saw there samples of writing by Edwin Bremar dated September, November and January, respectively. There the child had pasted it himself on the first Monday of the months indicated. Several other similar records of writing were there too. Every one of them showed obvious improvement.

On another page of the book, with a beautiful picture pasted on it, was the heading: "We Have Improved Our Writing." Under this each child whose work showed improvement in writing was entered in his own hand. There was a similar page for each of several other subjects. A good idea for the home.

Old Main Of Penn State College To Open On Wednesday

Famous Old Building Has Been
Center Of Student Life
For Many Years

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 22.—After a lapse of only one college year in its rebuilding, Old Main, the center of traditions and student life for three quarters of a century, at the Pennsylvania State College, on Wednesday comes back to its own. With its white stone tower standing 150 feet above ground as a new Nittany Valley landmark, the new main college building is the outstanding mark of distinction upon what is held to be one of the most beautiful of American college campuses. Student organizations and college administrative offices have about completed moving into the new structure, and following the official opening of college Wednesday morning it will once more be the scene of major campus activities. Razing of the 70 year old original building started July a year ago. Weathered limestone from the structures forms the walls of the new campus. An architect's lantern in the tower tip burns all night. The same clock that checked community movements for a quarter century in the old building has been placed in the new tower. The building has been given colonial lines and its entire interior arrangement, including the furnishing of offices, has a distinct colonial atmosphere.

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press
NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Sir Thomas Lipton, seeing what was his last chance at trying for The Bloomer Mug slipping away in unsuccessful endeavor, bows to the inevitable and smother his chagrin.
The well-wishers of Sir Thomas feel worse about the thing than he does. He's reached that enviable place in life where little things don't make much difference any more.
Accepting the detriments of Fortune with philosophy and grace is one of the compensations of old age.

GALLANT
When Lipton came to America for the first time he was a mere kid, penniless and traveled steerage.
A newspaper woman who interviewed him on his last arrival asked him which of the two trips had proved the more interesting to him—the first, by way of steerage, or the last, with all the trimmings that the masters of trans-atlantic travel could provide.
"It's difficult to answer that question," said the ancient tea merchant. "I haven't reached the point in life yet where any experience—even an ocean voyage—is monotonous. That first trip, years ago, and this last one each had its compensations. But I put it this way"—and he screwed up his little blue-gray eyes until they were a couple of merry slits—"the last trip was best, because it brought me face to face with YOU!"

BLARNEY.
Sir Thomas clings to his blarney like seaweed to a clam.
"An' shure I'm thinkin' they must have put somethin' in th' water off Newport to beat th' Shamrock th' way they been doin'," opined a pessimistic Celtic friend of the yachtman.
"You're quite right," replied Lipton. "They did put somethin' in th' water to beat me. 'Twas th' Enterprise!"

ALLEGIANCE.
And just one more reference to the old gentleman and I'm through. "For years," he says, "I've been gettin' with myself whether or not I'd pledge allegiance to th' Stars an' Stripes. An' there's only one thing that prevented me. There's such small difference between a good Briton an' a good American—an' I'd become an American I'd have had to quit challenging th' Mug!"

RAIN-MAKER.
The Westchester Racing Association, comprising a group of wealthy and canny gentils, thought it might be money well spent to take advantage of an offer made by old "Doc" Sykes, Rain-Maker and Rain-Preventer.
The "Doc" held and maintained that for 2,000 bucks a day, during the brief term of the meet, he could be induced to play the role of Joshua and bid the sun shine. For every clear Saturday during the term he thought he should receive a little more—say $2,500. Any time it rained—just to show that he meant business—he said he's be willing to pay the fee as a forfeit.

Some of the shrewdest business men have strange ideas when it comes to advertising. It is so with the Westchester Racing Association. The money they paid the "Doc," amounting to $10,000 in all, didn't bring them any more business than ordinarily they'd have received, and what it did was shake confidence in some quarters, in the sound judgment of the men who financed the scheme.
The gentle art of advertising looks easy; but it had best be left to those who specialize in it.

RESULTS.
Years ago a rain-maker, Col. Bob G. Drydenorth, Civil War veteran, got Congress to appropriate a quarter of a million dollars for a demonstration on the Colonel's part. He got a lot of dynamite and a long cannon and opened up operations at Fort Meyer. The idea was if sufficient dynamite were exploded, clouds would form and rain follow.
The detonation he created at Fort Meyer broke every window in Washington and the Colonel moved the scene of his operations to Texas, where he traveled with a ton of dynamite.

When he had squandered half a

Vets Too Feeble To Hold Reunion

BUTLER, Pa., Sept. 22.—For the first time in 29 years the annual outing of Veterans of the Civil War of the Six Points district, usually held in September, will be abandoned this year and probably permanently. The new veterans remaining in Northeastern Butler county are so feeble that they are not in condition to hold the reunion.

Many a man who wears a toupe is keeping it under his hat.

Inter-Troop Contest For Scouts Begins October 1

Keen Competition Foreseen In New Point Race; Ends December 31

A thirteen-weeks' contest designed to furnish stimulation for Lawrence county's Boy Scout troops as they commence their fall and winter work, starting October 1 and ending December 31, was announced today by County Scout Executive Herbert G. Horton. Announcement has already been made to the scoutmasters of the council.

Explaining the competition, Mr. Horton said that troop memberships will be taken from office records as of October 1, and scoutmasters should check up on their own list and the council office list as scouts may not be dropped or transferred to associate rank after the contest opens, without being penalized.

It was pointed out that scouts transferring out of the council, or on account of moving or on account of a new troop being organized in their church, shall not count points against their troop.

Trophies For Winners

Two trophies, one of the "high total" trophy and another to be given for the "highest average," will be presented to the troops leading the point race. These will be presented during "Anniversary Week" each year.

Chief Executive Horton stated that all troops registered and in good standing automatically become contestants, and reports of their progress are to be published weekly. To count points scouts must be in the office not later than seven days after the meeting or hike. The maximum count is one meeting and one hike a week. Reports of the troop scribe will be most important.

To the troop having the highest total number of points goes the "high total" trophy, while the troop having the highest number of points per scout wins the "high average" trophy.

Points For Counting
Points are counted as follows:

Each second class scout advanced to first class—25

Each second class merit badge awarded—10

Each first class merit badge awarded—15

Each Star Scout Rank awarded—15

Second places in field meet (council), per place—10

Merit badges passed by scouters of the troop do not count in the contest; nor do any badges passed before October 1st, counts points.

Slain As He Climbs Through Window To Rob "Gas" Station

PORT CLINTON, O., Sept. 22.—Leon Arnold, 37, of Toledo, was shot to death Saturday night at Danbury when he attempted to enter a gasoline station owned by Walter Lammar and located near the south approach of the new Sandusky Bay bridge.

Charles Wilson, who sleeps in the building, was aroused about midnight and saw the man coming through the window. Wilson picked up a shot gun and fired at the window. The charge struck Arnold in the right side of the face and killed him instantly. When Wilson ran from the building, he saw a second man enter an automobile and drive away. Four shots from the gun were fired at the fleeing automobile.

Arnold was to have appeared in the Common Pleas Court here July 22 on a charge of stealing chickens in Ottawa county. He failed to appear and his bond of $500 was forfeited. Mrs. Mary Cammer, Toledo, had put up the bond.

Babson says this would be a good time to buy stocks. And if we had a little milk we'd have a little mush if we had a little meal.

Find Body Of Murdered Woman

Body Of Woman Slain With Bullet Is Found In Abandoned Quarry

(International News Service) WEST CHESTER, I., Sept. 22.—Efforts were being made today to identify the body of an attractive young woman who was found with a bullet through her brain and a heavy strap tightly drawn about her throat in an abandoned sand quarry near Glen Loch about 14 miles west of here yesterday.

The gruesome find was made by a group of Philadelphia picknickers. Coroner Herbert Ford, of Chester County, following a preliminary examination declared the woman had been murdered and that the body had lain in the quarry for less than 24 hours.

The body was stripped of all clothing with the exception of a silken chemise and a pair of stockings. Police believe the murder was committed elsewhere and the body hurried into the deep quarry in an effort to hide the crime.

The young woman was about 30 years of age, and five feet nine inches tall. She had dark brown hair, bobbed, and a small mole on the right side of her nose.

Old-Fashioned Paper Money Flowing Into Local Banks

From overstuffed mattresses and ancient trunks and improvised treasuries Uncle Sam's old-fashioned large size paper bills are finding their way to the banks of New Castle. Old nooks and corners in attics and cellars where some have stored away their savings instead of in banks are being overhauled with the new smaller bills.

An interview with bank officials in the city disclosed that old paper money is still received by banks here. The large bills that have been displaced by smaller ones since July 10, 1929, are collected and sent to the local banks' correspondent banks in other cities and are classed as "mutilated." In a short time the old bills find their way to the Treasury Department where they are destroyed.

Fred C. Duff, of a local bank, tells many interesting instances about the return of old money to his bank. "A few days ago," he recalled, "an undertaker came to deposit $650 in large paper bills. No doubt that amount had been saved by someone who wanted to be sure of a good burial. The money may have been stored away for years."

At another time a person came to deposit a large roll of the yellow $20 certificates. The roll undoubtedly remained hidden for years in some out of the way nook. A bank official said that when the money was presented to him he noticed the bills showed unmistakable traces of being gnawed by rats. The edges had been eaten away by the rats.

While bankers here believe there is still considerable old paper money in the city, no official statistics are available on the amount still believed available. The new money is displacing the old as rapidly as depositors return the large bills. Packets of the larger greenbacks are a familiar sight in any bank, where they are classed as "mutilated."

Insurrectionists Capture Southern Section Of Chile

Chilean Exiles Living In Argentine Lead Insurrectionists In Revolt

(International News Service) BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 22.—Led by Chilean exiles living in Argentina, a group of insurrectionists have captured the southern part of Chile around the important city of Concepcion, it was reported here today.

General Enrique Bravo and Col. Marmaduke Grobe, former officers in the Chilean army, are reported to have led the revolt. They flew to Concepcion from Argentina in a Fokker plane said to have been piloted by two Americans, Edward Olivares and Roy D. Schmidt.

Their arrival in Concepcion was followed almost immediately by uprising of the Concepcion garrison.

Mrs. C. C. Campbell Has Night Blooming Cereus Now In Bloom

This seems to be the time of year for the night blooming cereus to put forth their blossoms as several are reported from various districts of the city.

Mrs. C. C. Campbell, North Ray street, reports this morning that the plant she has is twenty five years old and has been in her possession for the past five years and has bloomed every year, having from 1 to 6 blooms at each time, coming out on different evenings. This year six beautiful blooms have been the output of the plant and the last blossom will open tonight in its full beauty.

When the flowers opens to the fullest in the center can plainly be seen the Star of Bethlehem, the manger and the Wise Men of the East. The Campbell home is a center of attraction when this flower blooms as persons from near and far come to see it.

Philadelphia Man Killed By Officers

Two Policemen Arrested On Homicide Charge For Killing Of Enraged Father (International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—A father of eight children, who remonstrated with police over the arrest of his son, is dead today and the two policemen accused of the shooting are held on a charge of homicide as a result of two boys kicking a football on the streets of Chestnut Hill yesterday.

The dead man, Felix Stranges, 46, was shot down by the bluecoats when he rushed out of his home to protest against the arrest of his son, Anthony, 18, the youth and neighbors charged.

The accused officers, William Holloway and Robert Mueller, however, charge the elder Stranges was shot when he attempted to pull a revolver. Anthony and a companion had been kicking a football when they were accosted by the bluecoats and when Anthony answered the policemen impudently he was placed in the bluecoats' automobile. The elder Stranges seeing his son under arrest rushed out to remonstrate and the shooting followed.

The accused men will be given a hearing today.

The meat packers inform us that a good steak ought to be cheap right now. Sure it ought to be, but it isn't and what's anyone going to do about it?

Four Flowers At Once On Night Blooming Cereus

Mrs. Edgar Smith, 805 Oak street, has apparently the champion Night Blooming Cereus plant of this city and vicinity, at least the plant in her possession has established a record for the present year with regard to the number of blossoms and blossoms. It had four flowers out in full bloom last night and there are twelve buds on it, which it is anticipated will blossom forth in the immediate future.

The four flowers which opened up last night started to break open earlier in the day and were entirely open at nine-thirty o'clock last evening.

They were seen by quite a number of people. The plant of Mrs. Smith is about four feet in height and is of the Star of Bethlehem variety, the interior of the flower resembling a cradle with a small babe in it and with a star above it.

This plant has bloomed every year for the past seven years and apparently the number of blossoms is increasing each year, as it had but nine flowers on it last year as compared with the indicated sixteen that it will have this year.

Tifereth Israel Rosh Hashanah Services Begin

Jewry The World Over Will Take Account Of The Past Year And Look To The Future

Rosh Hashanah, or the Jewish New Year, 5691, will be ushered in this evening at sunset among Jewry the world over; a day of solemn reflection, a day of prayer, a day of introspection, a day of personal, moral investigation.

The Jewish rabbis drew upon their brilliant and lively imaginations, and endeavored to impress upon their followers the importance of deciding at such a period upon what should be their future course, as well as their attitude toward the past. With the New Year's day has also been associated the thought of the Day of Judgment. With all the magnificence of oriental poetry, with all the wealth of brilliant imagination, the Jewish teachers have represented by trope after trope, by figure after figure, God sitting upon a high and exalted throne, with mankind passing before Him, as sheep before the shepherd; and they said that as he who loves his fold counts and marks each lamb, that passes before him, so on the New Year's day God causes every soul to pass before Him, and He writes in His Book of Judgment the fate of each.

The Jewish people, unequivocally, hold the dictum of the ancient rabbis who taught that "man is judged every day." Nevertheless, the New Year's day is regarded as in a special sense, Day of Judgment, because it is believed that when crises occur, when seasons change, men are apt to be thoughtful. And thus, on the New Year's day, with all due solemnity, and with all earnestness, Jews must consider of those essential matters which enter into man's moral constitution, and each individual see where he stands. It is a day upon which it is the part of wisdom to strike a moral balance sheet; to look within one's self; to pluck the soul from within, and gaze upon it as in a mirror, and to truthfully say at least once to one's self, whether he or she are any better than they were a year ago; whether conscience is more sensitive; whether each one is indeed more impressed with the importance of moral force in the affairs of life.

Services will be held at Congregation Tifereth Israel, Rabbi J. Shapko officiating, tonight and Tuesday evenings at six o'clock; on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings at seven o'clock; sermons Tuesday morning "The New Year"; Wednesday morning, "The Significance of the Shofar."

DISTURBS PEACE OF JAIL; THEY THROW HIM OUT

(International News Service) EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 22.—He disturbed the peace of the prisoners so they threw him out of jail. That line has possibilities of opening a song—the song story of Eugene Moore.

He might compose something for it on his harmonica—if he stays a long ways away from the Evanston jail. When the law tossed Eugene into a cell for having no visible means of support he sat down on the edge of his bunk, fished a harmonica from his pocket, lovingly wiped it and swept enthusiastically into the strains of the "Sextet from Lucia." And he took all six parts.

The prisoners looked out of eye corners, with downturned mouths.

Eugene let go with a medley of popular airs.

There was a medley of mutterings. He veered into the Stein song.

Even the officers couldn't sleep. They told him to cut it out.

For answer Eugene gave them the dulcet melody of "Casey Jones."

There was nothing to do so they put him out.

As he walked forth free there waited back the tune of the almost forgotten selection, "Goodbye Boys, I'm Through."

Rev. Frank Tyler At City Mission

Rev. Frank Tyler was the speaker last evening at the service held in the City Rescue Mission, 17 South Mercer street. He was greeted by a good audience. His subject, "What Wilt Thou Have Me To Do." He brought home to his listeners God's requirement, a separated life and fellowship with Him.

Mrs. John Wink and Mrs. A. L. Rigby favored with several vocal duets, also W. C. H. Mathews played on his musical saw.

Four Barrels Of Oil Come Daily From Each Of Volant Oil Wells

About four barrels of average type black oil flow every day from each of the near 40 oil wells in and in the whereabouts of Volant, according to one of the Volant citizens, Frank McWilliams.

It has been only in the past thirty years that the wells were drilled at Volant, the first one being owned two miles from the town by Josiah Drake, in 1901. Before that time, according to McWilliams, it was not known that there was any oil in that district. Since 1868, however, oil has been found in the Mahoning Valley, where Mr. McWilliams spent his boyhood days.

After the water is drained off the tanks of the 40 Volant wells, it is sent to Warren, where it is refined. Quite a lot of attention must be given to a well in order to make it pay. A number of Volant men devote most of their time to the care of the district oil wells. George Whitman, Roy Litchburg, Jack Armstrong and others. Occasionally the wells must be cleaned of thick oil and sand, and it requires an expert knowledge of the mechanism to clean a casing that is 600 or 700 feet underground.

Robert Black, who owns an oil well a short distance east of Volant, uses the gas comes from the well, in his home. Five or six other oil well owners use the gas to run the engine at the well, thereby, orating the well at no cost whatever.

Some of the wells don't always make an average of four barrels a day. Other wells have been known to make 15 to 20 barrels a day in two or three day stretches.

Not always has oil been struck where wells have been drilled. Fourteen years ago some Volant men formed a company and drilled for oil west of Volant. A staunch flowing well was struck. There was no oil, no salt, but splendid drinking water. The well has spouted water out of the pipe steadily ever since, but there is no oil to use it. It has been estimated that in 24 hours it is possible that 1000 barrels of water flows from the pipe—enough to supply several dozen families.

General Clark, father of Dr. William Clark of New Wilmington, at one time drilled for oil at Neshannock Falls and got mineral spring water. He sold the well and to this day it is about the finest water in the country, in Frank McWilliams' opinion.

At Bessemer, Pa., in Mercer county and near Grove City there is quite a number of oil wells in operation. All bring in a substantial amount of oil a day enough to pay for their operation and a little profit.

Skilled American Laborers Held As Soviet Prisoners

Report 450 American Laborers
Are Held Virtual Prisoners
By Soviets

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Charges that the Soviet government is holding prisoner 450 skilled Detroit automobile mechanics who were persuaded last year to sign contracts to work in a Stalingrad tractor factory were made in the daily mail today by Herbert Lewis, an American evicted from Russia for striking a negro worker in one of the plants.

The Americans are forced to work for practically nothing because of the Rubel's inflation, according to Lewis, their lives constantly threatened by typhoid, dysentery, malaria, pneumonia and scurvy. More than 2,000 Americans are laboring in Russia under similar conditions, he asserted, constantly refused Soviet permission to leave the country.

Lewis is quoted in the Daily Mail as stating that the Soviet officials promised the Americans to deposit two-thirds of their salaries in Detroit banks and pay one-third to them in Russia. This deposit, he was given to understand by informed fellow-workers, has not been made in Detroit banks, leaving the workers practically penniless.

Lewis charged further that 80 percent of the Americans living in Russia at present have petitioned the government for permission to leave the country, but have met with constant refusal. Soviet officials, he added, scrutinize and censor all their telegrams and letters. He asserted that the only medicine available to them amidst threatening epidemics is castor oil.

Further Plans For Armistice Day Program

Committees Meet On Sunday And Consider Various Problems

THREE COUNTIES TO SHARE IN PROGRAM

Principal problem confronting the service men of the World war in the celebration scheduled for this city Saturday, November 11, in observance of Armistice Day, is the matter of finance. It was found at the meeting of the Ways and Means committee and chairman of the various other committees, held Sunday with General Chairman L. B. Round in the lecture room of the P. & O. system.

In former celebrations held on Armistice day by the World war service men of Lawrence, Butler and Mercer counties, the cities and counties have furnished the funds needed to finance the event. Committees representing the Armistice day organization are today calling upon the city council and county commissioners seeking funds for that purpose. It is estimated that it will take in excess of $1,500 to finance the affair.

The decision of the meeting Sunday was that the celebration shall be held and that funds needed will be secured. Should it become necessary to seek public gifts, action was taken yesterday, which will make this possible.

In the meantime while the problem of finance is being determined, gifts of those interested in putting this affair across will be gratefully accepted and may be left with John D. Kennedy, cashier of the People's Savings and Trust company, treasurer of the general committee.

Program Planned
It was determined at the meeting of the committee chairman and the Ways and Means committee on Sunday afternoon, that the outstanding features of the celebration will be the drum and bugle corps competition, the parade in which all service and civic organizations of the city will participate, the address of Congressman John E. Rankin, of Tupelo, Miss., the feed to be provided for the out-of-town participating organizations and others, the program of stunts to be put on by Troop F, the military band in the evening and a competition for the merchants of the city in a window display in keeping with the occasion being observed.

Definite decision was arrived at that in order to assure the attendance of the drum and bugle corps of real ability from all parts of the state, at least thirty in all, that prizes of a suitable character must be offered. It was decided that these prizes should be $300 for first prize, $150 for second prize and $50 for third prize. Place of holding this competition will be decided later but will probably be at Taggart Field stadium or near Troop F field on Scotland Lane west of the city.

The music committee will invite bands of the city and district to participate and it is anticipated that there will be plenty of music of this character for the parade.

It is also planned to invite and to have in attendance, the national guard units not only of this city and Ellwood City, but also Grove City and other national guard centers of Western Pennsylvania take part.

It is probable that the feed to be provided for the occasion will be arranged so as to take care of the visiting delegations and organizations at Carnegie auditorium and the others at the Legion home.

Military Ball

The military ball in the evening is being planned for the cathedral ballroom and this is the only feature of the entire day's program for which a charge is to be made. It is anticipated that at least fifteen hundred tickets will be disposed of for this feature of the celebration.

In the matter of street decoration, it was decided that the display of the American flag at the curb as is customary here on holidays and on the business places and homes would be sufficient, it not being deemed necessary to have any expense incurred by the committee or the citizens of New Castle for this purpose.

The fact that Congressman John E. Rankin of Tupelo, Miss., a World war service man and one of the outstanding proponents in congress of compensation for the former service men was unanimously approved by the meeting. Congressman Rankin is known as one of the best speakers of congress and he will have something of real interest to tell the service men of the three counties gathered here for the celebration.

The co-operation of the business men of the community is desired and an opportunity is being offered them to make window displays appropriate to the occasion, prizes to be awarded to the three adjudged best. There will be a first prize of $25, a second prize of $15 and a third prize of $10. Judges for the drum and bugle corps competition will be secured.

Among the bands expected to participate are the Pennsylvania R. R. P. & L. E. R. R., the Senior, George Washington Junior, Ben Franklin Junior and Croton school bands, the Duke of Abruzzi band and others.

Meeting of the representatives of the service men's organizations, and all patriotic, service and civic organizations desirous of participating has been called for Tuesday evening at nine o'clock in Legion Home association building on North Jefferson street by W. S. Lewis, chairman of the service men's organizations.

Those in attendance at the meeting Sunday were L. B. Round, general chairman, Dr. H. H. Rosenthal, commander of Perry S. Gaston Post, James A. Bell, commander of Harry L. McBride Post, John D. Kennedy, W. S. Lewis, Orville Potter, Dr. W. Fulton Jackson, Russell Melvin, Glenn Berry, Ralph Montgomery, W. J. Chapman, Howard Geary, Malcolm Cox, Harvey Bintrim and H. K. Bell.

Big Auto Parade On Two Highways

Odd Fellows From Beaver Valley Are Augments By Local Car Drivers

One of the largest automobile parades ever witnessed in Lawrence county passed over the New Castle and Beaver and New Castle and Slippery Rock roads yesterday. The start of the parade was in the Beaver valley when a delegation of Odd Fellows set out for the Odd Fellows' home at Grove City.

It was headed by three bus loads followed by a long trail of automobiles. At the parade passed through New Castle, motorists who were going in the direction of the Perry highway or Slippery Rock fell in behind until the line was over two miles long.

Between New Castle and Harlansburg there was only one motorist who tried to pass the line. He was weaving in and out, narrowly escaping cars coming in the opposite direction, until he reached a point about one-half mile in the opposite direction. Here two highway patrolmen caught up with him and took him out of the line.

At Harlansburg a highway patrolman was stationed at the intersection of the Perry highway and regulated traffic until the parade had passed.

Big Congregation Fills St. Mary's At Mission Opening

Father Regis Delivers Wonderful Sermon At Opening Service Sunday

Success of the mission being conducted at St. Mary's church by the Capuchin Fathers was clearly indicated by the attendance at the opening service Sunday. Every seat, a thousand in number, was occupied. Father Regis O. M. Cap was the preacher of the service and took for his text "What does it profit a man if he gain the whole world but suffer the loss of his soul?"

The service started with a hymn "To Jesus Heart All Burning." This was followed by announcements and instructions. Before the sermon the hymn "Come Holy Ghost" was sung. After the sermon, the hymn "O Mary My Mother" was sung. During the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament the congregation sang

"O Salutaris and Tantum Ergo." After the divine praises were recited "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name" was rendered by the women.

The melodies used in the Catholic service were Gregorian, some dating as far back as the third and fourth centuries. Considering the fact that no rehearsal was held, the women are to be complimented on their singing. The Missionary Fathers were greatly pleased with the success of the mission. The pastor, Rev. Fr. P. J. McKenna, has issued an invitation to the members of other churches to attend the mission.

The mission this week is for women. There will be mass each morning at 6 and 8 o'clock and the evening service will be held at 7:45 o'clock.

Pennsylvania Has 1,326 Residing In Washington Who Vote In This State

(Special To The News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 22.—The District of Columbia boasts 1,326 Pennsylvania men and women who have avoided disfranchisement by maintaining legal voting residence in their home state through paying taxes and otherwise complying with voting requirements, the bureau of the census survey of the district.

The fact that residents of the capital are not permitted to vote has long been a matter of controversy, and in order to learn how many people in Washington avoid disfranchisement by retaining legal residence in their native state, the census bureau conducted a special census count here. The bureau reports that 15,105 persons living in the Capital City who are 21 years of age or over maintain legal voting residence back home, 1,326 of these being Pennsylvanians.

Pennsylvania ranks fourth of the forty-eight states in the size of the delegation living in Washington but voting at home. New York leads with 1,588 voters in the capital, Virginia coming second with 1,550 and Maryland third with 1,467.

Coeducational Dining Hall Proves Popular At Westminster College

(Special To The News.)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 22.—A reorganization of the dining hall operations at Westminster college, put into effect last week, has proved very popular among the students. A careful study of the operation of separate dining halls in the Minter, Thompson and Hayes houses, freshman women's dormitories, showed that there would be more efficiency in combining these dining halls with the one in Robert Audley Browne dormitory for men.

A committee of the board of trustees, Malcolm H. White, college business manager, and President W. Charles Wallace planned the reorganization scheme which is now working out very well. As a result, girls residing in the Hillside, the senior lodge and the Cummings house all eat at the Hillside dining room. Men residents of Browne hall and freshmen women residents of the McKelvey, Minter, Robertson and Thompson houses all eat at the Browne hall cafeteria. This reduces the dining hall operations of the college to two.

The coeducational feature of the Browne hall eating arrangement is rather new in the history of Westminster. In fact, a careful study of colleges throughout the state reveals that few have facilities for co-educational eating.

Last week at the start of the Browne hall cafeteria, there were 100 students eating at the centralized location. It was decided, after considerable thought, that the cafeteria feature would be retained. This feature is popular because it gives the student a choice of two menus.

Lawrence Harrison, new athletic director and proctor of Browne hall, is in charge of the Browne hall cafeteria. Residents of Browne hall, led by Mr. Harrison, and residents of the women's dormitories, led by dormitory deans, file into the cafeteria. Grace is said as the group stands single file along the counter, and in 15 minutes the entire number is served.

The staff in charge of cooking and serving includes a chef, three cooks, student waiters, dishwashers, counter help, and a cashier. This is the same size staff, with the exception of a few additional student aids, which served

Professor Shott announced Saturday that the first meeting of the graduate class for teachers will be held on Saturday evening of this week at 10 o'clock in Room 311, Old Main Memorial. The class will be composed for the most part, of school teachers from Lawrence, Mercer and Butler counties.

It is planned to devote the study of the first semester to educational sociology. This course, leading to graduate credits accepted by the state department of public instruction at Harrisburg, will also count as an additional education course required for those who seek permanent teaching certificates in the state.

Last year 14 teachers availed themselves of the opportunity of qualifying, in this way, for permanent certificates. A large number has expressed interest in this year.

During the second semester Dr. C. A. Dawson, head of the department of English, will conduct a graduate course in Teachers' English on Saturday mornings. This course will also be accepted by the state department.

New Charges Are Filed Against Bishop Cannon

Bishop Cannon Faces Second Investigation At Hands Of Committee

(International News Service)

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 22.—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Washington, D. C., today faced the prospect of undergoing a second investigation before a committee appointed by the Methodist Episcopal church south.

Bishop Cannon was exonerated last May by the Methodist conference at Dallas where the bishop's alleged stock market dealings and political life were investigated.

Four elders of the church have filed the second complaint against Bishop Cannon with Bishop William Ainsworth, chairman of the college of bishops, Birmingham, Ala.

Church rules require that Bishop Cannon should be tried on charges of stock market dealings and political life were investigated.

Bishop Cannon has been advised of the new charges and is reported enroute to New York from Rio de Janeiro and the port of Santos with Mrs. Cannon.

Peiping Is Under New Rule Today

Seat Of Northern Coalition Is Under New Rule Today As Nationalists Move In

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Peiping, seat of the northern coalition which for more than a year has opposed the Nationalist government at Nanking, today came under a new rule today, according to a daily telegraph dispatch from that important Chinese center.

The city was occupied without the firing of a single shot by the troops of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, the Mukden warlord. His occupational forces expected to enter the city of Tientsin before sunset, according to the Peiping dispatch.

The Mukden army moved in on the heels of the forces of General Yen Hsi-Shan, head of the northern coalition who reportedly resigned his post last week and announced the would retire with his army into the mountainous Shansi territory. Apparently, a secret understanding existed between Yen and the Mukden commander, as evacuation proceeded in the most matter-of-fact manner and without even a show of hostilities. Foreigners and Chinese residents were unperturbed by the change in military garrisons, pursuing business in the usual way.

Student Appearance No Sign Of Ability Notes College Dean

Tendency Today Is To Elect Ones With High Scholarship, Says Sackett

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 22.—Fraternalism at the Pennsylvania State College will have less trouble picking winners this year than in former years. With ten days in which to make their selections from the freshman class, little besides the appearance of the youths is available, and appearances have much less bearing on a student's eventual career than his scholastic standing, according to Dean R. L. Sackett, head of the School of Engineering at Penn State.

From a two year study made of a number of engineering students, Dean Sackett found that there is a definite tendency on the part of employers to select students with high scholarship rather than to depend on appearances. Other studies made at Penn State indicate that these men make the great successes in their chosen fields.

This year's freshman class at State College, however, is the highest qualified scholastically in the history of the college, so that the fraternities will find good material in almost any man in the class. Approximately half of the 1,200 freshmen will receive invitations to join the 37 Penn State fraternities. Rushing started with the opening of college on Wednesday, and bids are sent out October 3.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

Pile sufferers can only get quick safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal medicine must be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, succeeds, because it removes this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts.

HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere and has such a wonderful record of success right in this city that McKee's or Eckerd's invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID and guarantee money-back if it does not end all Pile misery.

Court Contempt Is New Charge Thompson Faces

J. V. Thompson Must Pay $300,000 To Niccoll Estate Or Go To Jail

(International News Service) UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 22.—Accquitted only last week of a charge of embezzling $125,000 from the estate of John Niccolls, J. V. Thompson, former multi-millionaire coal baron, now penniless was to face charges of contempt of court in Orphans Court here today.

The contempt charge grew out of Thompson's failure to carry out a court order requiring him to meet obligations of about $300,000 to the Niccolls estate.

Judge Dawson, before whom the case was to be tried, will have to decide whether the case comes under provisions of the Insolvency Act or if Thompson's failure to meet the obligations constitutes contempt of the court order.

The aged former coal baron declares that if he is not sentenced to jail he can, within a few months, close a deal which will enable him to meet the obligations.

Judge Prather of Crawford county, has replaced Attorney Frederick W. Miller as chief counsel for the Principals of Thurn and Taxis, who is seeking to have Thompson cited for contempt.

HE CULPRIT, RICKER, CONTINUES HIS STRANGE STORY OF HOW THE STOLEN SOLITAIRE RING GOT INTO THE GOOSE, AND THE GOOSE INTO THE OPEN MARKET—

AS I WAS SAYING—WITH THE JEWEL SAFELY IN THE GOOSE'S CROPP, I KILLED AND PLUCKED THE BIRD, AND BOLDLY TOOK A TRAIN BACK TO THE HOTEL WITH IT—

THERE I GOT THE CHEF TO KEEP IT IN THE REFRIGERATOR FOR ME, WHILE I WENT ABOUT MY BUSINESS AS USUAL—

Nobody suspected me—THE POLICE WERE CONVINCED THAT THE PLUMBER WAS THE THIEF—SO, AFTER A COUPLE OF DAYS I DECIDED IT WAS SAFE TO OPEN THE GOOSE AND TAKE OUT MY SOLITAIRE—

BUT, WHEN THE GOOSE WAS OPENED—GREAT SCOTT!—THERE WAS NO SIGN OF THE RING!

Wampum Team Wins Mushball Title In Game Here Saturday

Wampum Team Wins New Castle Mushball League Title By Beating Lockleys

Patterson Allows Locals But One-Hit—Green's Errors Prove Costly

The New Castle mushball league title rests in the confines of Wampum today and all because the Wampum team with Patterson, their star moundman, pitching a one-hit game, downed the Lockley Machines 2 to 0 in the final game of the series Saturday afternoon at the Lehigh field. The game was witnessed by close to 300 fans.

The Wampum team won the best two out of three in the series, and now gain possession of the handsome silver trophy cup awarded by Jack Gerson, local jeweler.

Patterson on the hill for the Wampum team, hurled a spectacular game allowing but a lone hit by Fenati and fanning three men. His team put up a fine fielding game and cut off several likely looking hits. El Lockley and Boone furnished the fielding features of the battle.

DeMark hitting star. DeMark of the Wampum team had a double for the only extra-base blow of the game. Three errors by Green, the Lockley shortstop, paved the way for victory for the Wampum boys. Green has been playing a bangup game all year and if he had performed as brilliantly Saturday the Lockleys might have taken the title.

Rodgers on the knoll for the Lockleys, allowed four hits and was effective in the pinches. The game ended the mushball playing in New Castle for this year. The Wampum team won the Mercantile league schedule and defeated the Spencers for the right to meet the Lockleys. The Lockleys beat the Lehigh team for the right to play the Wampum team. The league this year was a big success all the way through. Plans are already under way for a bigger and better league next year. The Wampum team took the place left vacant by the Post Office team dropping out shortly after the season got under way.

The Lockleys want to thank the Lehigh for putting up the ropes on the field and for having the field well marked and in first class shape for the title games. Manager Allen of the Wampum team also wishes to thank the Lehigh Cement company for their work.

St. Louis Team Plays Six Games To Five For Cubs And May Win Pennant

DODGERS PUT OUT BY PITTSBURGH

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—While the champion St. Louis Cardinals—stop us if we are a bit premature—were idle Sunday the Chicago Cubs gaped out a victory over the Boston Braves and today mathematically remained in the pennant chase in the National League. The Cubs gained half a game, taking undisputed rights in second place, two and one half games behind the Redbirds.

The Robins fell before the Pirates and back into third place.

St. Louis plays Philadelphia today and the Cubs again take on the Braves. No other clubs are scheduled in the National League and no games are slated in the American League.

The National League standings this morning were:

W.	L.	Pct.	St. Louis
87	61	.588	6
85	64	.570	Chicago
84	65	.564	Brooklyn
84	67	.556	New York
78	69	.531	Pittsburgh
69	81	.460	Cincinnati
57	90	.381	Cincinnati
51	98	.342	Philadelphia

Gabby Hartnett's homer with Heathcote on base broke a tie in the ninth inning and won for the Cubs over the Braves 4 to 2. It was Pat Malone's nineteenth triumph of the season.

William Watson Clark Zeppelined mightily, the Pirates scrambling over seven runs in the third and fourth innings against the Robins and finally putting it away 7 to 6. Suhr homered for the Bucs.

Hogan's single scoring two won 6 to 4 in the curtain puller for the Giants over Cincinnati but the Reds retaliated in the night cap, blackboarding it 7 to 6. Willie Walker blew up for the Giants as the Reds scored six runs, due mostly to a double by Meusel with three men on.

Using rookies and reserves the champion Athletics won from the Browns 10 to 4 after dropping the opener 8 to 4. Goslin of the Browns homered in each hit.

Whitehill won a hurling set-to with Harley of the Senators, an error after a double-stitch giving the Tigers a 4 to 3 tenth inning win.

Pat Caraway, young White Sox southpaw, retired in mid-game because of a strained muscle after holding the Yanks scoreless. Chicago managing to knock out a 15 to 7 victory.

The Ruddy Sox pushed over five counters in the tenth, lowering away the Indians 9 to 4.

McCarthy Through As Cubs Manager

Regardless Of How Cubs Finish This Year McCarthy Will Lose His Job

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Regardless of how the Chicago Cubs finish this year's race in the National League Joe McCarthy will not be manager next year, according to a copyright story in the Chicago Herald and Examiner today.

The story points to an asserted disagreement between owner William Wrigley, Jr., and President William L. Veck.

Although McCarthy's contract expires at the end of the 1930 season no mention has been made by the Cubs of any renewal of McCarthy's contract. It is pointed out. In fact, all questions, both here and in the East regarding this situation have for some time been side-stepped by both Wrigley and Veck.

Possibly because Rogers Hornsby represents a huge investment to the club, the article points out, both Veck and Wrigley are ready to offer him the post as 1931 manager of the Cubs.

Internal discussion is given as the cause. Three major league ball clubs, one National, are bidding for McCarthy, it was understood.

Junior Tourney Reaches Finals

Herman Green And Thomas Johnson Will Play It Out For Championship

Herman Green and Thomas Johnson are meeting this afternoon at the golf course of the New Castle Field club in the finals of the tournament which both showed an extremely good knowledge of the game and did some excellent work. The final score was 4 up and 2 to play in favor of Johnson.

Both young men are playing good golf and the indications are that the contest this afternoon will attract a large gallery. The result is in doubt and both will try hard to win.

Thomas Johnson reached the finals by defeating Jonathan Brown in a well played and exciting match, in which both showed an extremely good knowledge of the game and did some excellent work. The final score was 4 up and 2 to play in favor of Johnson.

The Herman Green-Charles Kay semi-final game was even more exciting than the Johnson-Brown match. It was up and tuck from the start to the finish, both youths showed a form that would have done credit to golfers of much longer experience than they can boast of. The final score was 2 up and 1 to play with Green the victor.

Universal Sanitary Players Are Guests

Team Which Made Envious Season's Record Guests Of President McAfee

M. K. McAfee, president, Universal Sanitary Manufacturing company, was host Saturday evening at The Castleton banquet parlor to the Universal Sanitary baseball team which earned an enviable record this summer by winning 19 games, losing five and earning a dead-end in another Bert Iman was manager of the team. They will be in the field again next summer.

The banquet followed a game Saturday afternoon in which the officials and foremen played the team as a climax to the season's festivities. Fred Glenn, factory manager, was the chairman of the banquet committee and President McAfee was toastmaster at the banquet. During the banquet Glenn recited the baseball achievements of the players.

Pictures of the aggregation were presented to the president and factory manager and in his remarks President McAfee said he considered the team had rendered a service to the company and at one time had acted as firemen and had saved considerable property when they extinguished a fire. He said the cooperative spirit between the baseball employees and the company was fine.

The uniforms and equipment for the team was secured through the president and during the remarks of the various foremen and managers it was pointed out that they considered the Universal Sanitary team the best in the city and promised that next year the same harmonious support, accorded during the present season, would again feature the athletic activities of the company.

The various players came in for praise especially the pitching arm catching staff. Schiek and Duffey carried a good record as did Bud Jones, Captain Summers, Mike Orlando and Clem General. Mickey Huff who played some with the team was honored and will be with Terre Haute next year. The batting average of the team was 30

Bobby Jones Starts After Fourth Title

Robert Tyre Jones, Atlanta
Golf Seeker To Become
National Amateur
Champ

Heavy Odds Against Jones
Winning All Four Titles
May Have To Be Paid

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—Fourteen years ago, Bobby Jones, the boy played Merion in his first national amateur golf championship at an age when most boys of fourteen are finishing their last year of the so called grammar grades. The reporters made quite a point of the fact that he was a knickerbocker. The reporters of that distant day were an innocuous lot. They seemed to think that knickerbockers were the badge of extreme youth.

Six years ago, Robert T. Jones, Jr., the man, won his first national amateur championship at Merion, achieving an honor that many, in their extreme innocence, had come to believe was beyond him.

Today, Robert T. Jones, Jr., the veteran of twelve major championships in which the title has been his, will seek the goal of his heart's desire on the course that has meant so much to him in the past. Today Robert T. Jones, Jr., the master champion of them all, will go after his fourth major championship of the year, a miracle to anybody else but just a commonplace to the genius that is Jones.

He will be one of a field of 170 starters in the qualifying round of the national amateur championship today, meaning that Jones will be one starter and the 169 others will be just so many good golfers trying to stop a great one from doing what no other man in all the history of the world has done. It seems needless to add that a Jones victory, if accomplished, will constitute a record for competitive golf since the beginning of time.

For men have played golf back through the centuries, yet none could do what Jones has done this year. At the outset, he won the British amateur championship for the first time in his life; then he won the British open championship for the third time in his life; finally he won the American open championship for the fourth time in his life.

So he stands today on the threshold of a miracle and all the world is standing with him, praying the same prayers that he will pray for the victory that he craves.

Here are the men who are most likely to dispute, it not nullify altogether, his progress toward the goal: Harrison Johnston, the 1929 champion; Dr. O. F. Wilking, the 1929 runner up; Johnny Goodman, the man who beat Jones last year in the first round at Del Monte, thus creating a new dynasty after Jones had won in 1924, 1925, 1927 and 1928; Cyril Tolley, twice a British champion and who, like Johnston succumbed to Jones only after a great fight in the last British amateur event; George Voight, who had Jones two down at the fourteenth hole in the same championship; George Von Elm, who beat Jones out of the 1926 championship and perhaps all the more dangerous for the fact that he has announced his retirement from competition at the close of this tournament; Francis Ouimet, Chick Evans, Max Marston, Jesse Guilford and Jesse Sweetser, ex-champions all.

Faces Great Field
Great names, these, but they don't begin to sustain the list. What for instance, of Lawson Little, who beat the man who beat Jones at Del Monte? What of Gibson? What of the three rounds of the round of Don Moe, Gene Homans, Philip Finlay, or, in fact, any given dozen who might leave the first tee at any given moment this morning? They are great golfers or they wouldn't be in there, which is the thing that makes Jones' triumph, even granting them to be the handwork of one of this world's annointed, more amazing than ever.

He isn't really due to win the tournament. Any human being who has won the first three championships of the year just naturally might be expected to blow the fourth. But, in spite of rumors that he had become treacherous in the face of this emergency to the point where his golf has suffered, he went out yesterday and shot a 69 to win a two-dollar bet and, if he wants another today, he probably will see that he gets it. He usually does.

Likes Merion Course
Merion has been very good to Jones. It got him all the way to the third round in 1916 when actually he was only there to see what it was all about. It was the scene of his first amateur championship victory and this week it will be the scene of either his greatest triumph or his most disappointing failure. He is grimly determined that it shall not be the latter, and with a fortune from Atlanta riding at 50 to 1 on his four-way victory this year, the chances are far from bad that four ways it will be, in spite of what they say about Jones' lack of poise here.

Thirty-Two Survivors
I, for one, have found that poise can be exchanged very advantageously for a 280-yard tee shot right down the middle.

Today's round will be a formality. So will tomorrow's. They are to be two 18 round affairs to determine the thirty-two survivors at the end of the qualifying round and even Jones himself, always the last man to admit that the future is settled, will admit that he will qualify. As a matter of fact, he will have a hard time avoiding the qualifying medal, which is one of the things he doesn't want. Another is a meeting with a resolute opponent in either of the two 18-hole match play rounds that will follow on Wednesday. These rounds are Jones' bete noir, if you follow my French or even if you don't. He almost lost here in 1926. He almost lost again in 1927. He repeated in 1928 and, finally, in 1929 he succeeded admirably, thanks to the courageous efforts of Mr. Goodman. For purposes of the record, today's round will open at eight o'clock. EIGHT SCHOOL MEETS TO BE HELD IN CLEVELAND

By BURL A. ELY
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22.—Eight conventions dealing with educational matters will be held in Cleveland between October 15 and February 18, four of the conventions are national bodies, one international and two are state organizations. The other represents teachers throughout northern Ohio.

Probably the largest convention will be that of the American Association for the Advancement of Science including 50 affiliated bodies, which is scheduled for December 26 to 31. Dr. Robert E. Vinson, president of Western Reserve University and Dr. William E. Wickenden, president of Case School of Applied Science are in charge of the arrangements here for the meeting.

The National Scholastic Press Association is expected to draw more than 1,000 students and teachers throughout the country, December 4 to 6.

The convention of the International Council for Education of Exceptional Children will be held here February 18 to 20. Miss Elinor Gray of Ferndale, Mich., is secretary of the council.

The first educational convention on the fall calendar is that of the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers which will convene October 15 to 17. Nearly 2,000 persons are expected to attend, according to the local committee in charge of the meeting.

Approximately 15,000 delegates will gather here October 31, November 1 for the Northeastern Ohio Teacher's Association convention, according to H. L. Batrick assistant superintendent of Cleveland public schools and president of the association.

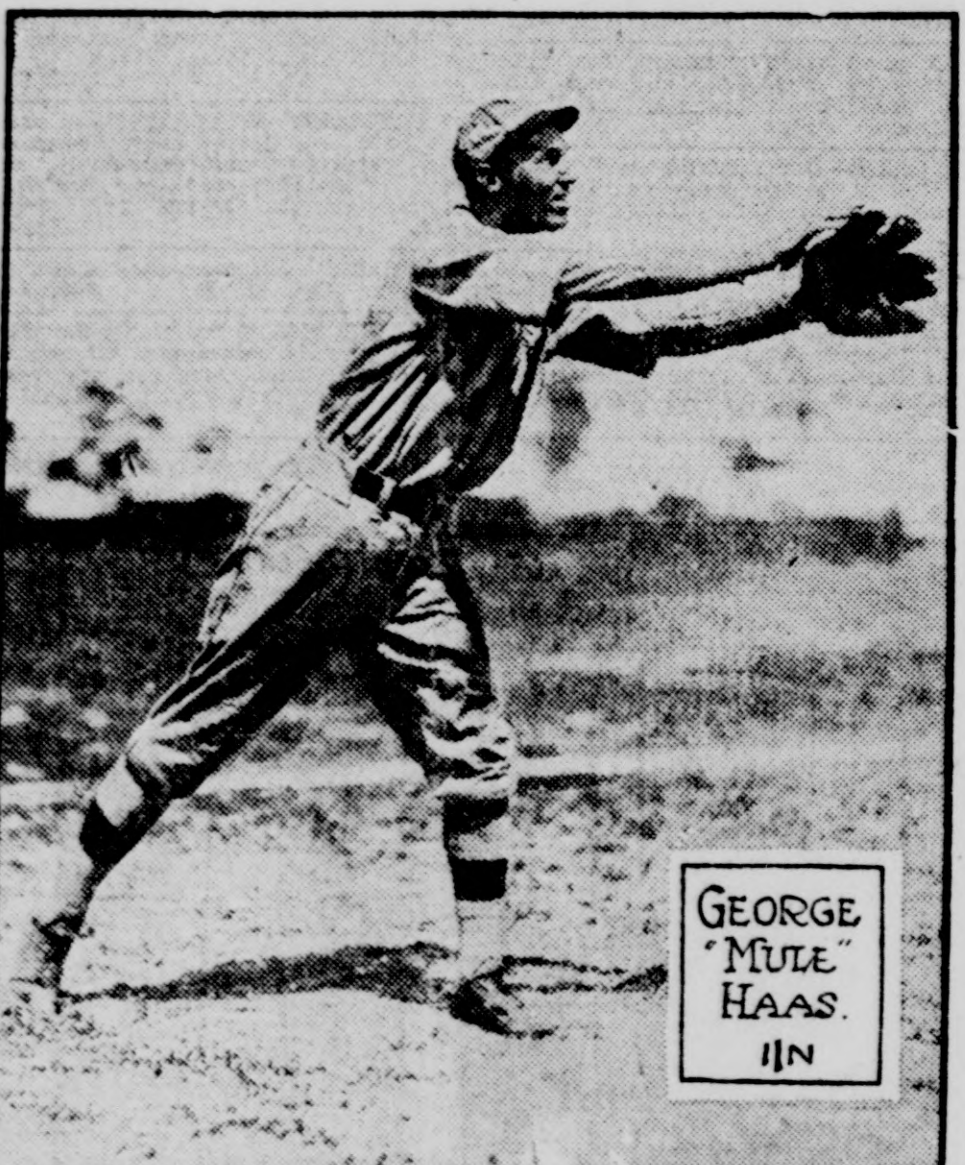

The National Council of Teachers of English will meet here November 27 to 29.

Definite convention dates for the Association for Childhood Education have not been set as is also the case with Ohio Music Teachers' Association.

Nick Cullop, former Minneapolis first baseman and home run king of the American association, has been purchased by the Cincinnati Reds and ordered to report to the National league team at once. With 55 circuit smashes to his credit, Cullop has been batting for a percentage of 370.

Autos From Many States Visit City

One Station Keeps Record And Finds Most Every State Of Union Represented

During the summer months it is an interesting thing to pay attention to the number of different state automobile license tags you see on the street. Few of us keep up a record of them and for this reason the record kept by Dean Forrest, manager of the Sutton Tydol station at the corner of West Washington and Atlantic avenue is the more interesting.

This Sutton station is one that was commended by the Lawrence County Garden club for its neat appearance and this probably is one reason for many motorists stopping. It is one of four stations operated by G. W. Sutton and Jess W. Jenkins, operating as the Sutton Tydol stations.

The list of states recorded at the station follows: West Virginia, Iowa, North Carolina, Illinois, New York, Indiana, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, California, Michigan, Maryland, District of Columbia, New Mexico, Virginia, Wisconsin, Florida, Missouri, Maine, Ohio, Vermont, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Delaware, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Kansas, Arkansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Arizona, Texas, Louisiana, Minnesota, Ontario, Canada, Quebec, Canada.

Herbert Hoover, Jr., Has Tuberculosis

Infection At Present Is Small, But Requires Immediate Medical Attention

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Herbert Hoover, Jr., the president's eldest son, is suffering from tuberculosis, it was announced today by Dr. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician.

The infection at present is small, and there is every expectation, Dr. Boone said, that a cure can be effected.

The president's son is now at the Rapidan fishing camp of his father in the Blue Ridge, and will remain there for the time being. His illness, while not regarded as dangerous, will necessitate his giving up all business activities for many months, Dr. Boone said.

Snyder Is Charged With Driving Auto While Intoxicated

When court convened this morning a jury was selected in the case of the commonwealth against William Snyder of near Wampum, charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Snyder was arrested by Constable Raymond Tolley in Wampum. After the jury had been sworn, the other jurors not on the case were excused until this afternoon.

Hunting Licenses Not Yet Received

In response to a letter County Treasurer Adda M. Smiley received a message from the state game department this morning saying that hunters' licenses are not yet ready, but are in the hands of the printer. About two weeks ago word was received that the licenses were expected to be ready by September 15. Many applications have already been made for licenses and the delay on the part of the state department is causing considerable annoyance. However, hunters are permitted to use their old licenses until the new ones are received.

Boston Herald: "The auto trip seems to have been quite a success. They traveled 12,563 miles and didn't break anything but a couple of commandments," which to our curious mind is a bum piece of reporting that makes for distressingly unsatisfactory speculation. Come, come, which ones?

World Series Sizeup

First Base

DEL BISSONNETTE OF THE ROBINS HAS HAD THE MOST ERRORS

By JACK SORDS
Central Press Sports Artist

With the Giants sinking out of the world series picture as September's days flit by, Jimmy Fox looms as the best looking first baseman who may be seen in the annual classic this year.

Had the Giants a better chance the honor would have to go to Bill Terry, who this season has proven himself one of the best first basemen the big leagues have seen in a long, long time.

Charley Grimm of the Chicago Cubs has a better fielding average than Fox, who ranks second in this department of the five men still to be considered as series first basemen.

but the Athletic's star is a much better hitter. Del Bissounette of the Brooklyn Robins has been hitting harder than Fox, but his fielding is not quite up to that of Connie Mack's man. George Kelly, the Cubs' other first baseman, ranks above Bissounette in fielding and below him in hitting. Fox tops George in both departments.

Last in the list, according to averages, is Jim Bottomley of the St. Louis Cardinals, who, however, is a good man at his post.

The four clubs considered having a chance at the October series are all blessed with capable first sackers, but Fox seems to have the edge, having been of great value to his club all season.

Football will be ushered in officially by the various schools on Friday night and Saturday afternoon of this week. Several of the schools have already played their first game, but the majority will open this week. The grid fans are hungry for the game. Golf and baseball is on the lag end of the season. This is the time of year when all good alumni come to the aid of their schools, and football teams.

The district fans are waiting patiently for the game at the Stadium this week, when the 1930 edition of the Pitt Panthers trot out on the greensward to do battle with a flock of Yellow Jackets from Waynesburg. There has been much written about this Pitt team. They had a fine training camp at Windber, and while Coach Sutherland fails to wax optimistic it is a known fact that Panthers are going to cause a lot of commotion when they get going.

Westminster College will show the fans of the Tri-State district a real good team this Saturday when they stack up against Edinboro Teachers College at New Wilmington. The Beede coached team is going at top speed in rehearsals. The line looks very sweet and the backfield is shaping up better. It is no secret that the Titans have an anxious eye peeled on the Tri-State title this season, and one glimpse at the squad that reports to Beede each afternoon will firmly convince you that the boys have the right spirit.

Duquesne University with the opening game of the year that with the Mountaineers now a thing of the past, and recorded in red ink on the wrong side of the ledger, will tackle the Slippery Rock Teachers College team Saturday afternoon at Forbes Field. Coach Layden was anything but pleased at the setback handed his warriors in that West Virginia game, and promises to have them at top speed against the Teachers. Detroit I. T. is the third game for the Dukes.

Believe it or not Ripley, but away back in 1897 New Castle High School, it must have been the High School we never had a college here, tied the Pitt team 6-6. Of course it wasn't Pitt then, and now it wouldn't count against Pitt's brilliant record, but it was against the old Western University of Pennsylvania team. Can any of you old boys remember this game? Let's hear from you concerning the lineup of that team.

Slowly but surely the Allegheny College varsity team is taking shape. Captain Garback stationed at fullback this year is an improved player and will no doubt cause a lot of heartbeats this year. Coach Crum is very well pleased with the outlook for the season. The first game comes on Saturday, October 3, when the Edinboro Teachers College team appears at Meadville.

For what reason the writer doesn't know, but the fans of this district seem to think that W. & J. is going to have a whale of a team this year. Coach Amos is drilling the Presidents alone now due to "Gats" Henry, assistant coach being laid up with an old leg injury suffered when he played

Pirates Farewell May Put Brooklyn Out Of Race For First Place

BROOKLYN, Sept. 22.—The Pirates played their last game for the present season in the east yesterday and the farewell turned out to be a defeat for Brooklyn, the Pirates winning 7 to 6. The defeat virtually slammed the Dodgers out of the race for first place in the National league. The Pirates had to come from behind to win and though Brooklyn rallied and scored three runs in the last three sessions they could not overtake Pittsburgh. The box score:

Assault Case May Be Ended Today

When court convened this morning the trial of Frank Brucato for alleged assault on Mrs. Oradena Russo, which was started last week before Judge Chambers, was again taken up. It is expected that the case will be ended today.

GEORGIA TECH GETS ITS MAN, SUH

This is the way they tackle at Georgia Tech. Vance Maree, one of the few heroes of the 1928 national championship team still on the squad of the Atlanta school, is demonstrating, for the photographer, the way in which he makes a flying tackle. Maree was the player who blocked Benny Lom's punt after Roy Riegels, of California, had made his famous backward run, netting Georgia Tech two points for a safety.

GRIDDERS WILL WEAR SHORTS

Head Coach Elmer Layden, one-time member of that immortal Notre Dame quartette, the Four Horsemen, examines his new idea for football pants, worn by Jack Burns of Layden's Duquesne university team, Pittsburgh. The pants, made of airplane cloth, are cut off just above the knee, permitting freer knee action.

Encouraging Seat Sale For Harvard Concert

One can get far more enthusiastic about a public event if he knows the participants. An athletic contest is always more interesting to the spectators knows the players on the field, and the same thing applies to concerts. One can always get more enthusiastic over a concert if he happens to know the artist, and this is just one of the reasons why the Sue Harvard benefit recital for the Jameson Memorial Hospital is attracting attention.

A Sue Harvard concert in any city is a promise of an evening of unusual merit. But a Sue Harvard concert in New Castle is more, it is the appearance of a New Castle girl and in this particular concert it is the appearance of a New Castle girl in a concert for the benefit of a New Castle institution, the Jameson Memorial Hospital.

September 30th
Only one week intervenes until the concert is presented on the night of September 30th. Ticket sales are increasing daily, interest is growing and the Cathedral auditorium should be filled for the concert. From the proceeds will come money that will be applied against the deficit in the Jameson Memorial hospital and thus the people attending the concert accomplish a dual good, hearing a real concert and aiding a worthy blooming. Miss Harvard has promised that the concert will be the peak of her efforts in New Castle. Her program will contain a lot of new songs, her concert and aiding a worthy blooming. ROAMING With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations
Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

During the past week there has been considerable interest around the city in that exotic oddity of Dame Nature, the Night Blooming Cereus, or as those dear Latins would have it, the Cactus Grandiflorus. And up until last night, the N. B. C. was just a name to me. Read of them, heard of them, but never saw them. In other words they were in the same class as the Taj Mahal or the Midnight Sun. Never saw those either. Last night removed the night bloomer from the list of unseen things, and when I did get to see them, saw some remarkable ones. Mrs. Robert A. Wallace of Highland avenue has a large night blooming cereus plant and Sunday night two large blossoms came out. Saturday night saw three of them, but they had closed up Sunday morning.

Nature seems to have been in a whimsical, extravagant mood when she designed this odd plant. When it opens out it has the stately beauty of the delicate texture of the orchid, and a fragrance that seems to have been borrowed from some oriental flower garden. One of them, enclosed in a room would soon fill the air with a heavy sweetness that is almost cloying.

After tiring hundreds of hairlike stamens in the bloom and a pistil that is like no other flower you ever saw, the peculiar old dame proceeded to refuse the flower a stem of its own and shoots it out from the edge of the leaf, a peculiarity of the cactus family.

The first indication of a bud is a little lump on the very edge of the leaf. Gradually this gets longer until soon a long red bud is there. Gradually an edging of white appears and by this time the cereus is already to bloom. At dusk it unfolds, stays out until nearly dawn, and then folds up again, finished with one appearance.

Cactus is featured among the many plants of Mrs. Wallace. She has them from Mexico, California and Arizona, tiny ones the size of a marble, some that look like pineapple plants and others that look like vest pocket editions of the giant cactus that grows up in tall green slabs. One cactus bush has some small red flowers on it that look like drops of blood.

A small orange tree is doing its best to produce oranges, but the best it has been able to do is produce one small green orange about the size of a tea ball, which can not hope to get any larger now.

Scattered about the yard are some peanut plants which were planted by the squirrels which live in the trees on the place. Unroasted peanuts were tossed out to the little fellows and instead of eating them all they planted them wherever their fancies dictated and the result has been peanut vines in every conceivable place. Now the squirrels get roasted peanuts.

The feature of the place recently has been the night blooming cereus. It has bloomed eight years out of the past nine and apparently the idea that it blooms only once in twenty-five years is a mistaken one, possibly a mixing of this plant with the century plant, which blooms every twenty years.

Saw some other oddities Sunday afternoon. Took a ride into a place that was once a palace of wonders to me, the zoo in Highland Park. As a shaver in Pittsburgh, the zoo was a place one got to visit only after a week's good behavior. Now after all these years, it still has a lot of appeal and the exhibits still are good for a thrill.

The ridiculous looking emu still brings a laugh, although the laughing is done outside the cage. If one of these queer looking creatures ever got a cut at you with one of the wicked-looking feet they have, the zoo keeper would be asking where to ship the remains. Of you, not the emu.

The spotted deer, which looks as though the pattern for them were cut out of polka dot material get another laugh. The huge polar bears with their heavy padded feet, the camels and the buffalo, the goats from Asia, all of them were just as interesting yesterday as they were years ago.

Rev. H. S. Miller Concludes Services At Hoover Heights

"When Christianity gets hold of a community the prisons have to go begging," declared the Rev. H. S. Miller last evening at the Hoover Heights Tabernacle.

This was Rev. Miller's last of six messages on the book of Ephesians. His messages have proven of great helpfulness to those who have been attending.

The speaker called attention to the ideal Christian home as recorded in the last section of the fifth chapter and the first of the sixth. This indicates the proper relations between wife and husband and husband and wife, between parents and children, master and servant and employer and employee.

Special music at the services yesterday consisted of a solo by Mrs. Amy Scripture, "I've Been Alone With Jesus." A duet by Mrs. Annie Anderson and Mrs. Ada Anderson, "I'm Abiding in His Love."
